

From: "Shoren Brown, Trout Unlimited" ["Shoren Brown, Trout Unlimited" <sbrown@tu.org>]
Sent: 4/9/2013 8:17:26 PM
To: Bob Perciasepe/DC/USEPA/US@EPA
Subject: Bristol Bay in the News April 8, 2013
Attachments: see it online; is fully funded by the Pebble Limited Partnership; Alsworth was paid $375,000 by the Pebble Limited Partnership; 80% of shareholders; residents oppose; savebristolbay.org; Click here to read more; Click here to read more; Click here to read more; Click here to read more; Click here to read more; manage; opt out; Sign up

If you're having trouble viewing this email, you may see it online.

Today in Washington, D.C., Nuna Resources, a group that has been discredited as being entirely paid for by the Pebble Partnership, is showing a film pushing mining extraction as the only economic development for Bristol Bay. While Nuna Resources claims to represent Alaska Natives, by its own admission, it has no membership, is fully funded by the Pebble Limited Partnership and its board members have financial ties to the mining conglomerate. One of the people featured in the film, Glen Alsworth, was the subject of a lawsuit alleging abuse of his elected position for personal gain, and court filings revealed that Alsworth was paid $375,000 by the Pebble Limited Partnership. That's why credible Native organizations say Nuna doesn't represent the villages of Bristol Bay, where more than 80% of shareholders and residents oppose the Pebble Mine.

In the piece, former Alaska State Senate President and Republican Rick Halford says it's time for the Pebble Partnership to step forward and submit its application for a permit.

Tom Franklin of the Theodore Roosevelt Conservation Partnership added that the EPA's authority to protect waters of national value is clear. "It's not necessary to wait for a permit application. We know that the scale of this development would be so great that it would have an effect on water quality. And that's what EPA is primarily concerned about," Franklin said.

And, an article in the Bristol Bay Times chronicles the strong debate over the State of Alaska's revised Bristol Bay Area Plan, with the Department of Natural Resources holding meetings in the region to hear local concerns. Controversial revisions to the 2005 Bristol Bay Area Plan were widely seen as favoring mining over fish, leading to a lawsuit that resulted in DNR having to do the current revisions. Many locals are advocating for an alternative plan that recognizes the use and value of fishing, subsistence hunting, wildlife and other priorities.

Shoren Brown

Tim Bristol

Trout Unlimited Alaska Director

EPA To Release Revised Pebble Mine Watershed Assessment

Peter Granitz

The EPA is scheduled to release its revised watershed assessment for the proposed Pebble Mine in Bristol Bay sometime this spring.

Conservation groups are stepping up the lobbying pressure in Washington in anticipation of the ruling... Click here to read more

Bristol Bay Area Plan Stirs Debate

The Dutch Harbor Fisherman

Jim Paulin Forced to review a land management plan by Pebble Mine opponents, the state is traveling around Bristol Bay communities to hear local concerns, according to Department of Natural Resources official Marty Parsons... Click here to read more

Anglo American Reduced to BBB by S&P on Spending Program, Debts

Bloomberg

Firat Kayakiran

Anglo American Plc (AAL) was downgraded by Standard & Poor's on concern the miner's capital spending and dividend payments will erode cash flow and boost borrowings. "We expect Anglo American to generate much more negative discretionary cash flow in 2013-2014 than we had assumed, which should in turn result in higher adjusted debt," S&P said today in a statement... Click here to read more

BBNC Creates a New Subsidiary

KDLG

Mike Mason

The Bristol Bay Native Corporation has created a new subsidiary. Bristol Bay Resource Solutions LLC will provide accounting, human resources, information technology and corporate communications for other BBNC subsidiaries... Click here to read more

Pebble Mine: We Can't Eat Gold

Switchboard

Taryn Kiekow

A wonderful new documentary provides a mouthpiece for Alaska Natives in Bristol Bay to raise their voices in opposition to Pebble Mine. We Can't Eat Gold premieres at the Finger Lakes Environmental Film Festival next Saturday in Ithaca, NY... Click here to read more

Trout Unlimited | 419 Sixth Street, Suite 200 | Juneau, AK 99801

This email was sent to perciasepe.bob@epa.gov. To ensure that you continue receiving our emails, please add us to your address book or safe list.

manage your preferences | opt out using TrueRemove®.

Got this as a forward? Sign up to receive our future emails.

email marketing by Trout Unlimited